My wife and I recently had the luxury of traveling to Turkey with a group of friends while utilizing the services of Avonturr Travel. Although I had traveled to Turkey previously, nothing prepared me for the differences in experiences when planning on my own vs. through a professional. The bespoke planning and design of our journey provided by Avonturr elevated the experience beyond expectation. Michael Distler's insight and thoughtful planning created "mini-holidays" within our vacation that kept our group of friends in awe at every turn. Michael's desire for our group to travel with "logistical efficiency" allowed us to enjoy more of what our destinations had to offer while spending less time in transit. Beyond all the impressive and awe-inspiring sights of the Hagia Sofia, Blue Mosque, Galata Tower, clear blue waters of the Aegean Sea and the hot air balloon rides over the ancient dwellings of Cappadocia, it was the intimate sights and destinations lesser known to most, yet equally spectacular that set this journey apart from my previous trip to Turkey. My wife and group of friends have had the pleasure of traveling on previous holidays Avonturr has planned and thus we were perfectly at ease knowing every aspect of our travel from preparation, connections, transfers, cultural etiquette, dining, and dietary restrictions were properly met. With Avonturr and Michael's knowledge and consultation, we are becoming more adventurous with trips in development for Antarctica, Patagonia, and Great White shark diving in Mexico!
